Re: EAS at McGrath, Alaska (DOT-OST-2017-0108)

Dear Mr. Schlemmer and Mr. Gormas:

On May 18, 2020, Corvus Airlines, Inc. d/b/a RavnAir Alaska ("Corvus") submitted a proposal to provide subsidized essential air service ("EAS") to McGrath, Alaska. Since that submission was made, Corvus was acquired by new ownership, FLOAT Alaska, LLC, with the approval of the presiding Bankruptcy Court. The new ownership and senior management at Corvus has decided not to pursue service to McGrath, with or without subsidy. Accordingly, through undersigned counsel, Corvus hereby withdraws its bid to provide EAS at McGrath.

Despite its decision not to pursue service for McGrath, Corvus looks forward to providing EAS to other communities in Alaska, including St. Paul Island, as soon as it receives approval to resume operations from the Department and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Respectfully submitted,
