ANSWER OF HAVANA AIR

Pursuant to the terms of Show Cause Order 2020-1-16, ViajeHoy Charters, d/b/a Havana Air (“Havana Air”) respectfully submits this Answer to the various filings herein filed February 12, 2020 by a number of parties.

ANSWER

1. CTS

Despite not being listed as a current or recent Cuba Part 380 Public Charter Operator (“PC Operator”) in the Department’s Show Cause Order analysis and summary of past-year/current Cuba PC Operators, Cuba Travel Services, Inc. (“CTS”) has filed objections herein indicating it now wants to be a PC Operator.¹ However, CTS Provides scant details of its new charter plans.

^{1/} Whereas CTS Objects to the required Notice filed by Swift, curiously CTS did not object to the Notice similarly required to be filed by World Atlantic.

CTS admits the HAV charters it states it now plans now operating will be “new charter services,” and also further admits it has in fact not operated any charters to Cuba in the past 3+ years since 2016. CTS Objections, p.2. CTS states that it was obliged back in 2016 to “re-evaluate” its indirect air carrier services previously operated as an OFAC CSP/DOT PC Operator and that it decided to suspend such services “temporarily” due to the scheduled air carrier service to Cuba (ie: American Airlines, JetBlue, Delta, Southwest). Id. Instead of charters, CTS has in recent years restricted itself to the sale, as travel agent, of scheduled tickets of American, JetBlue, etc.... Indeed, on its website today, CTS not only does not offer any charter services, it unambiguously states its business as being that of a travel agent selling the scheduled air tickets of American Airlines, JetBlue, Delta, & Southwest. See: <https://www.cubatravelservices.com/plan-your-trip/> (copy attached at Tab 1). CTS is therefore clearly not a seller of any charter services² and, for the purposes of this allocation proceeding, the Department did not list CTS as a current or even recent Cuba PC Operator because it is not such a PC Operator.

Regarding CTS’ plans for purported new charters, they are unacceptably vague. CTS has curiously failed to identify how many PC flights it might operate, fails to identify which direct air carrier(s) it states it has executed a charter agreement(s) with, or which direct air carrier will file an application for an allocation (but will only do this after issuance of the Final Order). CTS’

^{2/} On its website, as travel agent CTS only holds out MIA-HAV scheduled services of American and on FLL-HAV the scheduled services of JetBlue. See: CTS booking results, Tab 2. Further, CTS on its website holds out, again as agent, one-stop scheduled services of foreign air carriers to non-HAV cities like Santa Clara (SNU) for the period commencing after March 10, 2020, the date beyond which US charter services are now prohibited (US scheduled carriers have since December 2019 been prohibited from such operation of scheduled services for these non-HAV cities). See: CTS website MIA-SNU & FLL-SNU search results – holding out COPA Airlines, etc..... services to SNU, copy attached Tab 3).

un-named contracted carrier cannot be Swift (CTS flights would have been listed in Swift's Notice as to firm contracts). Similarly, it cannot be World Atlantic, for the same reason. Or perhaps CTS/World Atlantic anticipates somehow using/have transferred to it the already problematic³ World Atlantic/Superior allocations which were listed in the Show Cause Order and allocating them to CTS. Or perhaps CTS anticipates using as its purported direct air carrier another unidentified US charter carrier or a 7th freedom foreign air carrier.

Regardless, this total lack of clarity by CTS regarding its new charters and its status as an exclusive seller of existing substantial scheduled services to HAV and non-HAV cities is totally inconsistent with the purpose of the Show Cause Order and the concept of grandfathering-in of current/recent incumbent PC operations of the carriers/Cuba PC Operators which actually did operate as indirect air carriers in the market in the past several years and do so currently. CTS' stated intent to now resume PC operations after a 3+ year hiatus of its own commercial choosing is clearly totally opportunistic and speculative and violates the whole premise upon which this allocation proceeding was established and should be rejected.

2. World Atlantic/Superior

It is curious that Superior has filed no comment in support of its purported intent to re-initiate its collapsed/never commenced PC program of flights. This silence speaks volumes. In contrast to this silence from Superior however, various commenters have filed strong objections to any allocations to World Atlantic/Superior on the basis that: (i) World Atlantic is/was not an incumbent; (ii) the Superior PC Program contracted with World Atlantic collapsed and never commenced with consequent stranding of passengers at MIA during a peak holiday season; and (iii) Superior never apparently received from Cuba the requisite landing-rights permissions that are critically required in order to operate any charters, etc.... See: Responses of Havana Air, Swift Air & Aerocuba; February 12, 2020.

World Atlantic, the direct air carrier for Superior's never-operated PC flights, of course does not address what happened with its PC Operator's abandoned flights (and it must surely know). However, World Atlantic clearly intends that "its" 355 allocations will somehow be used in another manner, raising the possibility of a transfer of those allocations to another PC Operator, including even a transfer of the allocations to itself as the PC Operator (ie: as both PC Operator and direct air carrier as a direct-sale PC product). These possibilities raised by World Atlantic merely reinforce the conclusion that World Atlantic's allocation is totally speculative and opportunistic amounting in effect to what it believes should be a transferable license-to-hunt. Such an interpretation is contrary to the Show Cause Order and directly contrary to concept of fairness to PC Operators which have a demonstrated history of actually operating their PC programs. World Atlantic/Superior's allocations should be rejected as being inconsistent with the Show Cause Order.

3. Cubazul

As with Superior, there has been silence from Cubazul in response to the Show Cause Order. This silence again speaks volumes, raising the question as to the seriousness of its opportunistic doubling-up of its existing historic flight schedule. Consistent with the Department's concept in the Show Cause Order of a grandfathering-in at current levels of operations, Cubazul's opportunistic attempt to now double its flight schedule to the detriment of other incumbents in this flight-capped environment is inconsistent with the Show Cause Order and should not be permitted.

4. Aerocuba

Whereas Havana Air broadly agrees with Aerocuba's arguments: (i) regarding World Atlantic/Superior's failure to operate; and (ii) that the charter allocations should be to the true-parties-in-interest; the PC Operators, as opposed to the direct air carriers the PC Operators selected. Nothing in Aerocuba's objections justifies Aerocuba's attempt to essentially double-up its existing charter flight levels over its recent/historical levels to the detriment of the other incumbent PC Operators. As with Cubazul, Aerocuba's opportunistic attempt to double-up its frequencies should not be permitted.

WHEREFORE, for the reasons stated above and in its February 12 comments herein, Havana Air objects to the procedures and allocations proposed and applied for.

Respectfully Submitted,

Pierre Murphy
