AGENCY: Office of the Secretary of Transportation, Department of Transportation.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) is issuing guidance for the acceptance and use of geomatic information obtained from a non-Federal entity. The Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act, H.R. 3684, Title I Federal-Aid Highways, Subtitle C, directs the Secretary to develop guidance for the acceptance and use of geomatic information obtained from a non-federal entity. DOT's Geospatial Management Office (GMO) recognizes the need for a geomatic information standard to meet this requirement.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Amy Nelson, Chief Geospatial Information Officer, OST, Department of Transportation at 202-366-9201 or by email at .

For specific inquiries on the Department's administration mechanisms for seeking correction of information covered by these guidelines, or for specific inquiries about the Department's statistical guidelines, please refer to the contacts listed in the guidelines.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Pursuant to The Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (Pub. L. 117–58), H.R. 3684, Title I Federal-Aid Highways, Subtitle C which directs the Secretary to develop guidance for the acceptance and use of geomatic information obtained from a non-federal entity, the Department has identified a standard to serve as guidance. The Project Development and Design Manual for Federal Lands Highways, maintained by the Western Federal Lands Highway Division, provides policies and guidance for project development and design activities related to Federal Lands Highways and can serve as guidance for similar projects. The manual was created in 1988 and is updated regularly. Additionally, it contains background and reference material, including specific information about techniques, theory, and specifications.

DOT will adopt Chapter Five of the Project Development and Design Manual for Federal Lands Highways (https://flh.fhwa.dot.gov/resources/design/pddm/Chapter_05.pdf) as the standard for the acceptance and use of geomatic information obtained from a non-federal entity. In instances where the manual's guidance does not apply to geomatic information obtained by a DOT Operating Administration (OA), the OA will have the flexibility to develop and maintain modal-specific geomatic information guidance.

Examples of existing modal-specific geomatic information guidance include:

(1) FAA Advisory Circulars which contain detailed requirements and standards for airport surveys and flight procedures. (examples: AC16B, AC17C, AC18B)

(2) PHMSA's Pipeline Operator Standards Manual (https://www.npms.phmsa.dot.gov/Documents/Operator_Standards.pdf), which defines positional accuracy requirements for gas transmission and hazardous liquid pipelines.

DOT is monitoring the development of candidates for geomatic guidance and will assess the need for updates to this policy statement.

The updated guidelines are available on the Department's website at https://flh.fhwa.dot.gov/resources/design/pddm/Chapter_05.pdf and in the docket. The Department seeks comment on the guidelines and the proposed changes.

Issued in Washington, DC.

Cordell Schachter,

Chief Information Officer, Department of Transportation.
