Re: GSAR Case 2022-G517

Dear Adina Torberntsson,

Oceana, the largest international organization focused solely on ocean conservation, is submitting the following 6981 signatures calling on the General Services Administration (GSA) to strengthen the proposed rule on single-use plastic packaging. We ask that these names be entered into the official record and considered as separate public comments. Each of the 6981 people signed the public comment below:

Dear Adina Torberntsson,

As the largest consumer of goods and services in the world, the United States government should use its significant purchasing power to make a meaningful impact on reducing the production and use of unnecessary single-use plastic packaging and products. Unfortunately, the General Services Administration's (GSA) proposed rule (GSAR Case 2022-G517) doesn't do enough to address the plastic pollution crisis that is harming our oceans, climate, and health.

An estimated 33 billion pounds of plastic are dumped into the oceans every year. Plastic, almost all of which comes from fossil fuels, is a significant contributor to climate change. No place on earth is untouched by plastic. It has been found everywhere from the deepest part of the ocean to the most remote mountains and even in our bodies. Less than 6% of plastic in the U.S. is recycled and plastic production is projected to triple by 2050. This is a growing problem, and the federal government needs to act now.

We are disappointed in the proposed rule's narrow scope and limited action, which will not effectively reduce single-use plastics in federal procurement. The proposed rule focuses exclusively on packaging and includes only voluntary measures for vendors to self-identify if they offer single-use plastic packaging. The GSA should have used this valuable opportunity to require the reporting of how much single-use plastic packaging and products the federal government currently purchases and then implement the shortest timeline to phase it out.

We call on GSA to move swiftly to stop the purchasing of unnecessary single-use plastic products and the use of single-use plastic for packaging and shipping when federal agencies purchase products using GSA contracts. Specifically, GSA should strengthen the proposed rule in the following ways:

- Require reporting on the current amount of single-use plastic packaging and products in federal agencies' purchases;

- Require the use of single-use plastic free or reusable packaging when federal agencies purchase products using GSA contracts;
- Quickly phase out non-essential single-use plastic products, including plastic bags, utensils, foodware, and beverage bottles, and packaging in federal agency purchasing using GSA contracts; and
- Incentivize the purchasing of sustainable, non-toxic reusable and refillable packaging and products.

By strengthening the rule to phase out the purchasing of single-use plastic packaging and products and support reusable and refillable alternatives within GSA's federal procurement contracts, GSA would align its operations with Executive Order 14057 on sustainability and Executive Order 14008 on tackling the climate crisis. Refill and reuse systems provide the best options to reduce pollution and the need for waste management and bring down shipping demands for heavy products like beverages.

The public overwhelmingly supports reductions in single-use plastic. According to a December 2022 poll released by Oceana, 82% of American voters, 85% of Democrats and 77% of Republicans, support reducing the federal government's use of single-use plastic.

We strongly urge GSA to do more and quickly phase out the purchasing of non-essential single-use plastic products and packaging for federal governmental departments and agencies.

Sincerely,
